ok

vive le feu

for our unilingual audience members

•••

you get it

I really like this punk band from France, Bérurier Noir

They are named after a Frederic Dard character

I'm quite litterate but that specific tidbit

I found it on Wikipedia

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/B%C3%A9rurier_Noir

(with funky URL character escaping included for free)

Choosing music to support my presentation is something I started doing at BarCamp MTL a while ago

just ask candidly: who invited Murphy?

I had a few other alternatives for my Fire theme

We didn't start the fire

By Billy Joel

But then, that's a signer my father listened to and it's the opposite of what I want to share this morning

(yeah I know)

It's the title of my talk on the program

But do you know how many weeks in advance you have to provide your title to these hard working conference organizers?

And then you have to work these slides

Like waaaaaaaay before the conference

So when I did my slides

Last night

I changed my mind

Man, is this guy ever going to start his presentation?

And you know, tell us the actual subject matter?

And you know, tell us the actual subject matter?

(thinks the guy in the last row)

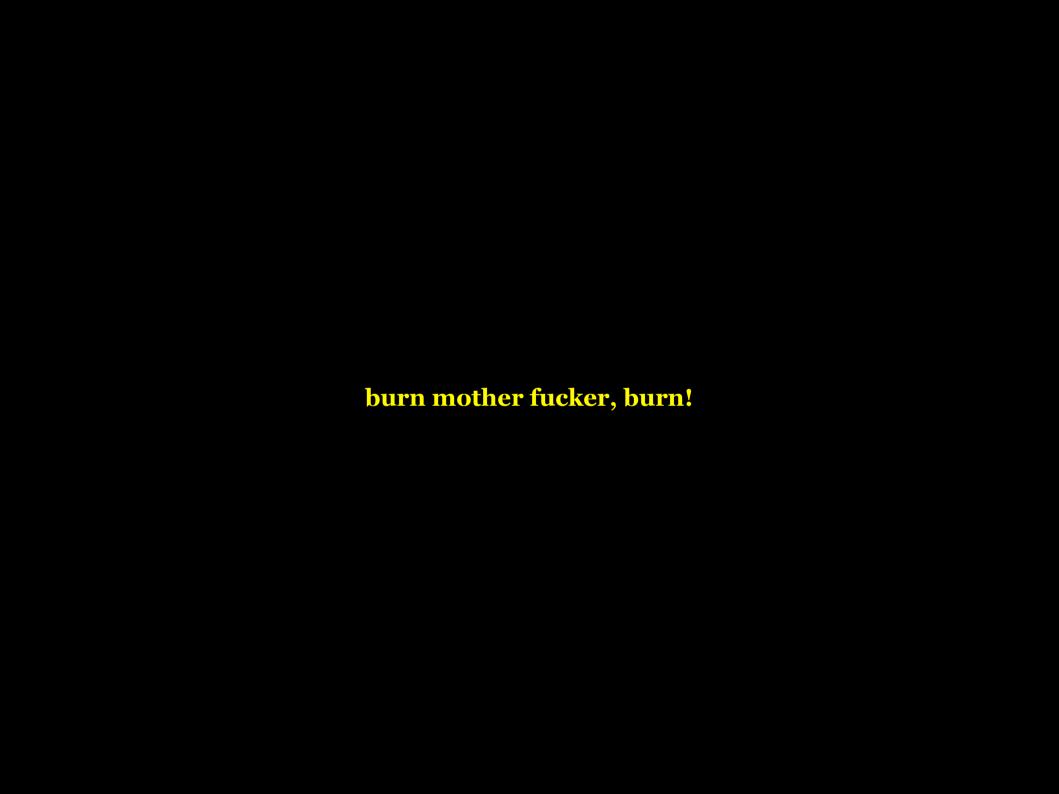

Light my fire by the Doors

Fire a classic cover from RHCP

Ring of Fire a Cash Classic

The Roof is on Fire

The Roof is on Fire

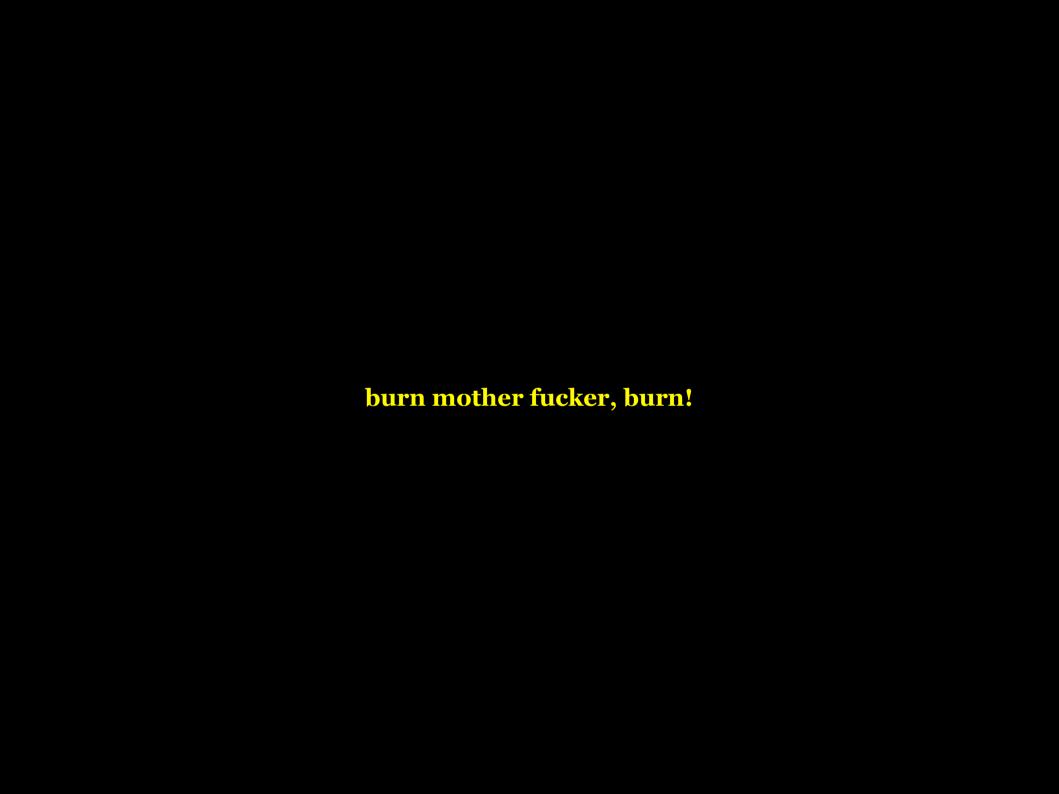

ok

Startups!

That's my subject!

Startups!

Startups!

Sigh, it's like, about time!

Sigh, it's like, about time!

(thinks the cute girl in the second row)

so there's this myth

about startups

being an AMERICAN thing

being an AMERICAN thing

(American BadAss)

Nope

Well, maybe a bit.

Can you name at least 5 tech/internet canadian startups from recent years?

Hum, was that easy?

So time for change

And YOU are part of the answer

There's 10 reasons why we can kick some serious ass

I am going to give you

5 of these today

because I want you to come to BarCamp Canada happening right here in Montreal in May for the 5 other

But first a story

mine

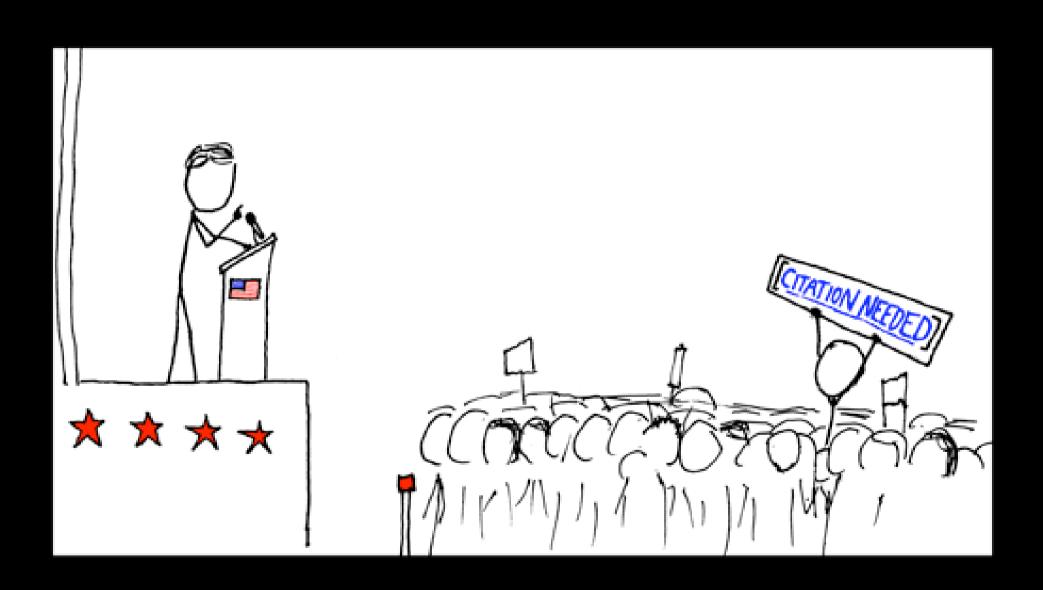

that way I can tell it like I see it

sure you could fact check

sure you could fact check

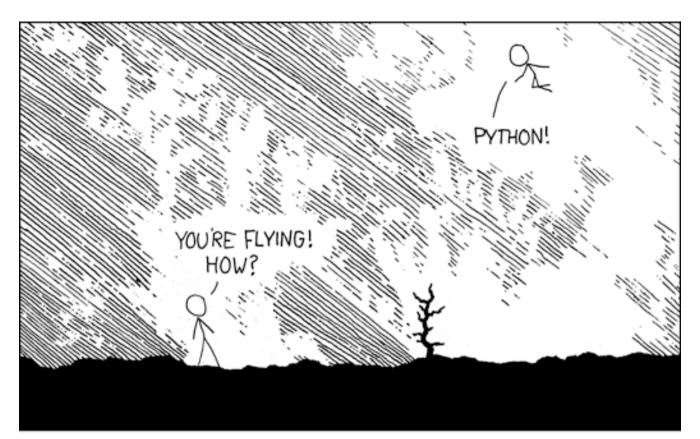

citation needed

but since I am not wikipedia material (yet) I'm clear man I <3 xkcd!

another one!

ok a short story

grew up in suburbia

my father was part of the first generation of computer programers

you know

you know when all you could get was either

green on black or amber on black

my first babysitter

was an Atari 2600

and a few others similar devices for a few years

Then I decided that I would not be a nerd

Flunked badly

Did stupid things

(this would become a pattern)

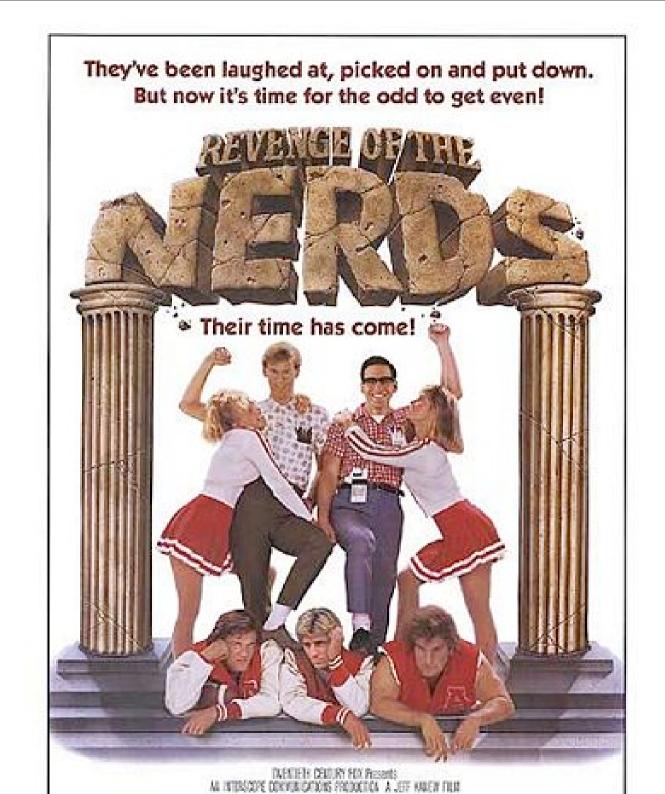

(for a few years)

Then I decided I should do something serious about school

At least something I liked

But I could not let my inner geek come out

Nerds weren't cool then

Went to study in some Humanities program, somewhere

Flunked badly

Did stupid things

(told you it was a pattern)

Decided to let some passion come back to my life

Went on to study Language and Litterature liked it did good things

took some more good decisions

I was really starting to like this

Decided that...

what the heck, I'm a nerd, I like computers, I like language, I like philosophy, I like sociology, I hate chemistry but I love physics, I like communication, I kind of like this girl in my théâtre Québécois class, I like Radio, I like programming, I like music, I love skateboarding, I like they way these Doc Martens make me look badass, I think I am onto something!

No more boring things!

No more doing stupid things!

(this would become a pattern)

Key Insight:

Save yourself a couple of bad years and do what you like, now!

Passion

FIRE!

FIRE!

Tabarnak, y'étais temps!

Tabarnak, y'étais temps!

(de s'exclamer le gars à gauche, là, au fond)

Key Insight:

Save yourself a few minutes and get to the point of your friggin presentation, now!

Key Insight (another one):

Decide for yourself what you want to do with your life, now!

(well, you can always change your mind later, you're young, remember)

So without further divagations and detours (well maybe some) here's the top 5 reasons you might want to start your own business

grasshoper

BTW, I always saw myself as the young student, but even if keep wearing these Doc Martens like when I was 19 and Nirvana was all the rage, you can't stop time!

I guess it's ok to be the older wise guy, well, sometimes

(I can so predict grey hairs soon)

ok

so here are the top 5 reasons

why you should go for startup

in a somewhat concise manner

(well)

(well) (coming from a guy)

(well) (coming from a guy) (that needed 140 slides)

(well) (coming from a guy) (that needed 140 slides) (before getting)

(well)
(coming from a guy)
(that needed 140 slides)
(before getting)
(to the crux of his thesis)

(well) (coming from a guy) (that needed 140 slides) (before getting) (to the crux of his thesis) (you might take it)

(well) (coming from a guy) (that needed 140 slides) (before getting) (to the crux of his thesis) (you might take it) (with a grain of salt)

This is a new era

It's much easier than before

Cheaper

Faster

(fail fast!)

More information

(more on that later)

(Almost) easier access to $

Good timing (for a few years)

You have nothing to lose

I mean, it's the best time

Being naïve is great

You get to disregard all the serious reasons why your idea is crazy

(worst case you will learn a lot of useful life lessons) #3

The world is smaller, the village is global

Thanks Marshall

Another awesome Canadian!

There is no secret cabal

Read blogs. Join mailing lists. Books. Heck even movies available on this series of tubes could help.

Questions, answers and contacts are just a few hyperlinks away

Canada is extremely welcoming for the world and the world for canadians

Learn from that.

Great immigration laws is a definitive bonus for Canada.

Affordable Universities too.

The world is your neighbour, quite litteraly. Share. Listen. Understand. Give. Receive.

(ok, so that was my hippie slide)

Because YOU can

Yes

You

And you too

Even the guy in the back left there

Yeah the one that said tabarnak a bit earlier

Even him

Wow

OK

Just to get you started

5 tips

5 tips to tip you to startup

With an alliteration like that I could make the front page of Digg

Or maybe not

But I digress

(yet again)

#5

Don't forget it's business

Merci, Bachman-Turner Overdrive, AKA BTO, pour cette démonstration de Canadianisme pratique via guitares électriques!

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Bachman-Turner_Overdrive

Might help to have someone with actual business chops

Hey could even be a fresh MBA from that business school you never wanted to go, you know or someone with past experience with boring but important stuff

Trust your gut

Yeah, I know.

This is not a touchy-feely thing

Even with a superhuman right brain hemisphere you need to listen a bit to the left part of your grey goo

#3

Learn from others

Take this seriously, but then again, remember

The Force is with you, young Skywalker.

But you are not a Jedi yet.

Project yourself be yourself

Deciding what and whom you want to be, sure helps to becoming just that

Even more if you state it publicly (like, blogging, par exemple)

but be yourself

Have FUN!

there is no substitute for passion and dedication

none

not money

neither fame

(or monetization thru google adsense, works for a month or two, but not worth you soul!)

there is no substitute for passion and dedication

I think I'm done well almost

Just because I can

Startups are like rock bands!

Rock On!

(cue music)

(we will rock you)

Thanks!
